

Federal Meeting Services

New open government and citizen participation services

Transparency of open meetings is more important than ever. Citizens want to learn about policy decisions that affect their lives. Federal advisors want to know that their time is being spent wisely and their recommendations taken seriously. But, the burden of managing open federal advisory meetings is time consuming, and the resulting records often don't accurately represent what occurred. What if one partner could provide the services you need with the technology that creates better outcomes?

Granicus Federal Meeting Services helps agencies create broader access to federal advisory committees with services and solutions that are uniquely combined to meet your transparency, participation, collaboration, and compliance needs.

Granicus is your trusted partner for building a better experience for citizens, advisory committee members, and government staff.

The world leader in webcasting solutions for government

- Webcasting Infrastructure

Reduce the burden on IT staff by leveraging a world-class hosted infrastructure backed by a comprehensive maintenance program.

- Videography and audio production

Granicus services include expert audio and video technicians that specialize in the public meeting setting. We understand that your committee members want to focus on providing their expertise without feeling as if they are on camera.

Conveniently deliver compliant online content to improve transparency

- Searchable Closed Captioning

Get a service that is largely overlooked, but required by law. Granicus captionists utilize an exclusive technology that enables remote Closed Captioning of your live webcast to be shown as part of the public experience without cumbersome equipment.

- Website Design and Integration

Leverage the Granicus web design team to integrate your new video portal seamlessly into your existing website.

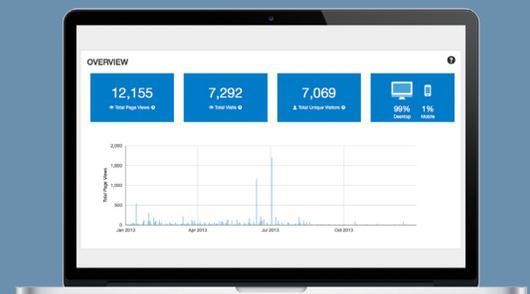

Promote citizen participation via the web to improve policy outcomes

- Citizen Feedback

Encourage new voices to weigh-in on meeting topics with an efficient online form on your website. It automatically collects citizen feedback and summarizes the collective thinking of the community.

Expand your reach to mobile devices with on-demand streaming

Measure viewership to understand trends and growth in audience engagement.

- Modernize how you collect comments

Reduce the administrative overhead of collecting, managing, and maintaining citizen feedback from all other sources. Citizens can write a short comment, indicate if they support or oppose a measure – even record a video using a webcam. All comments are consolidated into one central location.

Publish a comprehensive, searchable public record to your website

- Leverage Granicus as a single source for meeting services to guarantee quality and continuity of your federal advisory committee recordings, webcasts, and transcriptions.
